

FINDING GOOD

THE HELPERS

SPRING 2021

ABOUT H'ART CENTRE

H'art Centre is an award-winning registered not-for-profit, charitable community arts hub that provides artists with disabilities and those facing barriers with opportunities to create, study and produce works in the arts and collaborate with qualified, trained community artists. LAUNCHED IN 1998, the H'ART STUDIO program facilitates artistic skill building and creation-based workshops led by trained, professional local artists and arts educators for adults with developmental disabilities.

ABOUT THE ART

People have been isolated, missing friends and loved ones, feeling bored, tired, stuck, and out of shape. Last year, we trained ourselves to appreciate the small things. This year, we are building on that creative skill. In January, we began to observe and find the good in this difficult and stressful time. What did we find? The helpers in our community! We will share a series of exhibits on the Finding Good theme over the coming months. It is our way to reach out and promote the well-being of our community.

911 operators find the people that need help, they tell the first responders where to go, they calm down the callers and figure out what is wrong. They gather information and explain how to stabilize an injured person. 911 operators are awesome, and they save lives.

$30 | Maeghan | Spring 2021

I created an army guy because I look up to them. I like to watch army movies too. I like the uniforms and I think they are very brave. When I was painting my figure, I wanted to paint it as me. My wooden figure is me as an army guy. I am happy with how it turned out.
